I understand that by submitting the attached art and or fiction I am giving the developers of g.d.i. Monday's the right to use it to promote the book or series Raising Hell in any way seen fit.

I also understand that should a third party buy the rights to the series or any other creative spin off of Raising Hell, they may exercise the option to purchase rights to the work I submitted.

I also understand that elements of this art or fiction may inspire future creative products to which the author and developers retain full rights.

I understand that any adaptation, display or distribution of the work to promote Raising Hell will be accompanied with full artist credit.

This release does not give the developers the right to sell the work to a third party distributor for financial gain or to present the work as their own creative product.
